

About St Andrews Community Housing Association

St Andrews Community Housing Association, also known as SACHA, is a 'not for profit' organisation whose aim is to provide affordable and sustainable housing solutions for young people, single adults and families. In addition to providing housing related services, specialist support teams are available to deal with areas such as budget management and the development of life skills, with a view to helping people make informed decisions and sustain their accommodation needs.

The governing body and key management staff of SACHA have long term and high level experience in both the public and private sectors. Strong links have been established and continue to be developed with the majority of the key and preferred specialist housing, general accommodation, support and care providers in the areas where our services are provided.

We believe that a viable, effective and successful service provision must not only be aware of other professional networks, it must also forge good working relationships with them and identify the people, teams and provisions that are most relevant to the people for whom we provide services.

Our website www.sa-cha.com aims to tell you what we do and how we can help and support you to enjoy living in your home and community.

We hope you find the site easy to use and we welcome any feedback you have that can help us improve and give you the best service we can.
